2 Supporting people into work

RCS is a not for profit organisation, linked to Romsey Community School but delivering a wide range of services across Hampshire. Jane Kent leads on employability and is the current chair of the Basingstoke and Deane Employment and Skills Zone. Jane gave a presentation to the group outlining the services they provide and how they could assist partners in delivering employability support to their clients.

3 Supporting People update

Karina Hutfield-Christiansen provided an update on homelessness and supported housing services traditionally provided by Hampshire County Council with money from central government.

Earlier this year, the funding was reviewed and cuts were announced. HCC plans in response to this involved Basingstoke being part of a cluster of local authorities receiving shared services.

BDBC housing team decided to look at alternatives and submitted a proposal to HCC that they are given their financial allocation directly to design and deliver their own homelessness and supported housing services. HCC agreed the proposal, which will be discussed at cabinet in December. If councillors agree, the new service will run from April 2016. BDBC believe they can deliver more services by working in partnership with other agencies, building links between services such as health and housing, being more innovative and improving the customer's journey through what can currently be sometimes disparate services.

Karina would be happy to talk to partners about BDBC's plans and how partners can get involved.

4 Changes to mental health care within CIT

Kerri Marshall and Grant Stillwell talked about the plans to expand the current HCC Community Independence Team (CIT).

CIT provides support to vulnerable older people, over 55, who are not in receipt of a care package. They promote wellbeing and can support people for up to 12 weeks. They have a multi-disciplinary team and can look at a range of issues, signpost people to local services and support them to access these. The support is gradually removed to encourage independence.

It was felt that this model could also work well for people with learning disabilities and mental health problems who are over 18. A start date for the service has not yet been confirmed and referral routes are currently being designed. Further information will be circulated to the group when available.

Gilda McIntosh raised concerns around young people and cyber bullying and asked what support and advice is available to young people and parents.

The School nursing team is now part of Southern Health and this is on their agenda. Bullying is also part of the child health agenda and Safer North Hampshire has a programme for schools which includes cyber-bullying. Need to understand coverage across Basingstoke.

Action: Add to agenda for future meeting.

The school nursing service now covers up to age 19 and they are looking at links with colleges to support this.

They are currently re-tendering for statutory advocacy services, under the mental health and care leavers act. The advert will be out in September for services to start in April 2016.

They also have a project starting with Proteus on 16 October for those with a mental health diagnosis – Confidence Through Art.
